

President's Preliminary Proposal: Cut Demo Budget $8.5 Billion

IT WASN'T MUCH of a car, but Jim Holliday was mighty proud of it. Jim was a University of Missouri student when I knew him a few years ago. And his youth was a bold anachronism as he bounced over Columbia's streets within his 1930 vintage Model-A Ford.

Outside of skipping more classes than any other student I had ever known, Jim was a good student, absolutely not one who frequently became involved with the local constabulary or who found his name on the dean's list for one misdemeanor or another.

Apparently because of that fact he forever was at a loss to know why the city's police department would want to heap shame upon his prized possession—the Model-A.

JIM HAD been driving that car over Columbia's streets for nearly three years when it happened. Not only was he proud of that Model-A's heritage, but he felt a grave responsibility for maintaining the car's enviable record.

Jim's Model-A had seen 19 years of motoring without once attracting a traffic ticket to its driver. The vehicle had been purchased new by Jim's uncle. He guided it safely over Missouri's roads for 18 years before bequeathing it to Jim as a going-away-to-college gift.

Jim arrived with it in Columbia, took one look at the city's narrow streets and teeming traffic and accepted the fate of his heritage with grim confidence.

HE CHUGGED along his determined way while watching big Buicks and flashy convertibles dart around the Model-A and streak through traffic, only invariably to be whistled to the curb and their drivers hauled off to traffic court.

Eventually Jim became convinced that he and the Model-A formed a team above the reaches of the law. He'd "never" be arrested for speeding—that Ford couldn't go fast enough to speed.

And besides he faithfully observed all stop signs, no-parking zones and even arm signals.

His confidence turned to complacency. A smug sneer parted his lips each time he and his Model-A met a cruising patrol car.

AND THEN one day Jim parked his car near the university and went to his day's classes. I had guided him as he had backed into the parallel parking spot after another car pulled out. Jim always used his passengers to advantage in preserving the Model-A's fenders from dents or scratches in tight parking spaces.

Late in the afternoon he left his last class and headed for the Model-A. A few feet from it he stopped, staring in horror and disbelief.

There, under the windshield wiper, fluttered a parking ticket! Next to his car, bright orange paint lined the curb. In the grass stood a freshly painted no-parking sign.

THE FACE that had sneered was drawn. A rusty but unscathed fender sounded as if it whimpered as Jim patted it and said: "They had to do it like this . . ."

There were witnesses. There also was orange paint on one of the tires. But Jim wouldn't even fight it.

Bettendorf Man Injured in Crash

STERLING—(Special)—Ran Jensen, Bettendorf, former WOC-TV staff announcer suffered a fracture of the hip in an auto accident after appearing here Wednesday night at a pageant.

Jensen's westbound car overturned at a curve in Rt. 2 about two miles west of here and hit a tree at 12:15 a. m. today.

He was taken to Community General hospital. He reportedly was moved to Bettendorf this morning.

SEVEN WAYFARING CHICAGO Boy Scouts, in perhaps the Rock River's first canoe expedition this spring, wave to land and work-bound Dixonites while passing through here Wednesday about noon. Galena avenue bridge is behind them. They had been swung over the dam in their canoes minutes earlier by a Public Service Co. crane. The Scouts left Rockford on the river last Sunday and expected to reach Starved Rock via Hennepin canal by next Sunday. Shouted by one: "The rain sure has been wet . . ."

Truce Talks Snarled Over Repatriation

Allies Warn Reds They'll Release POWs in S. Korea

PANMUNJOM (P)—The Allies warned the Communists today they might take a short cut through the snarled prisoner exchange problem by simply releasing 32,000 North Koreans who don't want to go home.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief Allied negotiator, said the 32,000 who might be freed are Koreans who have said they want to live in South Korea.

He also told the Communists to nominate a non-Asian country as neutral caretaker for 48,000 Communist prisoners who don't want to go home and made it clear the Allies would discuss little else until that's done.

In an unproductive, 51-minute meeting, Harrison said that choosing the neutral caretaker nation must come next. He added: "All Asian nations are located very close to countries dominated by Communists and might therefore be subjected to Communist military, economic or political influence."

Harrison told newsmen the Communists "talk a lot about concessions, but on the vital point of ultimate disposition of prisoners there has been no concession of any kind."

Hold Man, 55, for Slaying Estranged Wife, Friend

KENOSHA, Wis.—(P)—A 55-year-old man, dazed and incoherent, was captured by an off-duty city policeman early today, several hours after his estranged wife and her daughter-in-law were slain by shotgun blasts.

Myron Wickham was arrested when he returned to the farmhouse where he roomed. A posse had begun hunting for him when the bodies of the two women were found Wednesday in a drive-in restaurant the Wickhams owned. The dead were Wickham's wife, Beulah, 51, and Mrs. Margaret Barry, 52, the wife of Mrs. Wickham's son by a previous marriage, Thomas Barry, 35.

"Don't shoot, I give up. I'm glad it's over," Wickham told the arresting officer, Robert Cantwell, a Kenosha city patrolman who had volunteered to stand watch at the farmhouse. Wickham was unarmed when Cantwell apprehended him as he came in the rear door.

Wickham was booked on two charges of first degree murder and a count of attempted murder of Barry.

Kenosha County Sheriff Marshall Simonsen said Wickham admitted the slayings, relating that he had gone to the restaurant to discuss

Governments 'Cripple' Selves Constitutional Tax Curbs Peril Cities, Is Claim

Governor Opposes Tax

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(P)—Gov. William G. Stratton indicated today he would not support legislation allowing cities to levy a half-cent sales tax without voters' approval.

A delegation of downtown mayors called on Stratton seeking his help on city aid bills in the legislature and expressing opposition to pending measures increasing cities' obligations.

The governor told reporters later that members of the legislature "apparently are genuinely quite disposed against" the city sales tax plan.

"I feel we have to do something to give cities help but also recognize we have to work with the legislature," he added.

Stratton said he is "very hopeful" that a city aid program will be worked out in the assembly.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(P)—A veteran municipal official says Illinois city governments slowly are "crippling themselves" because of constitutional and legislative restrictions.

This view was voiced Wednesday to the house revenue committee by O. D. Buckles, for 12 years corporation counsel and now acting manager of Evanston.

He was testifying with spokesmen for Chicago and several downtown cities in support of a bill that would give municipal authorities clear cut power to levy a one half per cent local sales tax.

Called Impossible

Currently, such a tax can be put on only after referendum approval by voters, something which supporters of the pending bill contend is a virtual impossibility under present nation-wide economic conditions.

The committee plans to hear from opponents next week before arriving at any decision.

Buckles told the legislators that in 1945 Evanston voters okayed the maximum property tax rate allowed by law and that "our heads are against the ceiling" in the search for added revenue.

Unless more comes from some source, he said, Evanston is faced with possible discontinuance of garbage and rubbish collections and a cut of 20 per cent in the city fire and police forces.

Buckles said that Illinois municipalities generally are in worse financial shape than those of any other state in the union, perhaps with a single exception.

Blames "Hobbies"

The reason, he said, is the hobbies placed on city authorities when it comes to digging up needed revenue. Illinois cities can license and tax only under limited specific grants of power by the legislature.

His statement was echoed by A. L. Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League, who said members are in a "financial straitjacket."

Sargent said that most cities are getting along with corporate fund property tax income of about the size of 20 years ago despite greatly increased costs, but are collecting more money from license fees.

Yank Heroes Off for Home War Over for Most of Those Repatriated From Red Camps

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., (P)—Twelve American fighting men who may never fight again sped to their homes in the far corners of the U. S. today. They are the vanguard of the first 35 repatriated POWs to reach home from Korea.

More will fly out of this sprawling air base later today and Friday. And another 63 will be borne swiftly across the Pacific in giant C97 Stratocruisers.

A few of those who arrived here Wednesday aren't going home immediately. They are going to hospitals where doctors will try to mend their shattered bodies and broken minds.

Wednesday's repatriates were happy—but they cringed from the welcome that awaited them.

No Reporters

Before they left the plane they sent out the word—"We don't want to talk to any reporters. We have talked enough already."

Then the 26 walking wounded filed off the big plane. They walked straight to a waiting bus. Some smiled, some waved, all looked around curiously.

Little emotion showed on their faces. But strain was there, and pain, and the lines carved deep by war and captivity.

White-jacketed medics then went aboard and brought out the nine litter patients. An amputee, a man with tuberculosis, a soldier who couldn't bend his leg.

Kept Secluded

For nearly two hours the men were kept in seclusion. Navy, air force and army doctors checked them over, decided who needed immediate, specialized care . . . who could be sent to hospitals near their homes . . . who could be released at once on 30-day leaves.

The men ate two-inch steaks and talked to doctors and caught a welcome 40 winks.

Then five repatriates were ushered into the hospital auditorium. Two were litter cases. They were placed in hospital beds ringed by newspaper, TV and newsreel cameramen and reporters. The other three were seated.

Fire Questions

The barrage of questions began—questions that had been asked and answered in Panmunjom, Freedom Village, Tokyo, Honolulu. Questions that must be answered again when they reach home.

The lucky ones got their travel orders, partial pay, plane or train reservations home, transportation into San Francisco, 40 miles away.

Twenty-one were told they could go home at once—but only 12 felt up to leaving Wednesday night.

Ike Favors 'Trade, Not Aid' Plan

WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower and the U. S. chamber of commerce were in accord today on "trade, not aid" in foreign policy, but at odds over restraining the government's treaty-making power.

Eisenhower told delegates to the Chamber's 41st annual meeting Wednesday night that healthy international trade "is the material foundation of our whole foreign policy."

"We must trade with others or we can't exist," the President said in a nine minute off-the-cuff talk.

He spoke at a dinner after the delegates adopted policy declarations.

Among these were a call on the government to halt foreign economic aid—not to be confused with military aid.

The chamber declared itself in favor of renewal of the Trade Agreements Act, tariff reduction and repeal of "buy American" legislation, saying more trade would make up Europe's dollar deficit instead of tax dollars.

KAGHAN TESTIFIES—Theodore Kagan, a state department foreign officer now assigned in Germany, testifies in Washington that he attended some meetings in the 1930's with persons he now assumes were Communists. Kagan told the senate investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) that he was not a member of the Communist party, although he believes he was worked on to join. (AP wirephoto)

Trees Topple As Wind Hits Local Area

Highways Blocked By Limbs; Some Phone Service Hit

Trees tumbled across four highways Wednesday night in the Dixon area as strong winds buffeted the Midwest and wide sections of the nation.

Winds that reached an hourly average of 20 miles an hour were recorded here, indicating gusts of about 50 miles an hour. The average strength was recorded by the Public Service Co. weather station, which does not record gusts.

Rockford reported its strongest winds at 58 miles an hour and St. Louis recorded gusts up to 100 miles an hour.

Hundreds of trees were uprooted by blasts throughout the state, according to the Associated Press. Utility lines were toppled and costly store windows were smashed in some cities.

M. M. Memler, State Highway division district engineer in Dixon, reported trees were felled on Rt. 52 about 7 miles southeast of here; on All. Rt. 30 between Dixon and Rochelle; on Rt. 51 about 7 miles north of Rochelle, and on Rt. 2, about 2 miles north of Oregon.

The Rt. 52 obstruction was removed about midnight by state highway employees. Crews were called out shortly after midnight to the other points where trees were across highways.

Normal traffic had been resumed at each of the highway sites by this morning, Memler said. His reports indicated the felled trees did not cause a total block of traffic

Willow Creek Official, Faced With Ouster, Quits

Edward Hoelzer, Willow Creek township commissioner of highways, resigned Wednesday following complaints by township citizens that he held office illegally.

State's Attorney James Bales today received a signed copy of his resignation which was submitted to the new Willow Creek township supervisor.

The resignation became effective Wednesday. Willow Creek town officers will be faced with the problem of finding a new man for the job.

Certain sources indicate that two candidates are fervently seeking the post.

Suggestion Election

It has been suggested that the township hold a special election to fill the office. However, costs may prove a deterrent force against such action.

Lawmakers Given Peek At Estimate

$5 Billion Arms Cut Proposed in Effort To Balance Budget

WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower reportedly laid before legislative leaders today preliminary proposals to whack approximately 8½ billion dollars off former President Truman's budget.

Lawmakers who sat in on the discussion at the White House said the tentative cuts would include a reduction of about five billion dollars in Truman's proposals for military spending.

Reductions of $1,800,000,000 in foreign aid, $1,200,000,000 in domestic spending and $250,000,000 in atomic projects also were discussed.

Only a Start

Eisenhower was said to have emphasized that the approximately 8½ billion cuts under the Truman $78,600,000,000 spending program for the year beginning July 1 were only preliminary and would be reviewed later. Truman figured defense spending at $46,300,000,000.

Truman proposed spending $2,700,000,000 for atomic energy and $7,651,000,000 on foreign assistance. Lawmakers who attended the conference said it was their impression that the proposed 8½ billion dollar cuts would make it possible to balance the so-called "cash" budget in the next fiscal year.

This budget is based on what the Treasury, actually pays out and takes in, including social security and similar receipts which go into trust funds.

Still Unbalanced

The proposed cut, however, would leave the regular budget out of balance more than 1½ billion dollars, since tax revenues for the fiscal year were estimated at $66,665,000,000 by Truman.

In this connection, the conference was informed that revenues are declining, with some indications that they may not reach the total predicted by Truman.

The President was reported to have said that action on proposed tax reductions would have to await more definite information as to what the deficit may run.

Dixon Woman Fractures Hip

A fall of approximately 18 inches Wednesday was sufficient enough to fracture the hip of Mrs. Paul D. Harding, 65, of 810 Second st.

Mrs. Harding, now in the KSB hospital, fell from a lower rung of a stepladder as she was cleaning windows in a home at 603 Galena ave. The Hardings were preparing the home for occupancy.

According to her husband, she was on the bottom rung when she fell.

After she was helped to her feet by her husband, she fainted. Mrs. Harding was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. There X-rays showed that she had fractured her hip.

Chicago Scout Burned to Death In State Cabin

PETERSBURG, Ill. (AP)—A Chicago Boy Scout was trapped in a blazing cabin and burned to death Wednesday at New Salem State Park near Petersburg.

He was George Toole, 15.

Scoutmaster Jerome Frazin, Chicago, and three other Chicago Boy Scouts fled the cabin, Frazin suffered burns on his hands as he attempted to rescue Young Toole from the wooden structure.

Menard County authorities said the structure evidently ignited as the Scouts were building a fire in the stove. Toole was in the bathroom of the building and was trapped by the quickly spreading flames.

Tomorrow Is Child Health Day; Diets Rate High for Well-Being

CHILD HEALTH DAY is important to mothers and babies both, for it represents the great strides made in the field of child health.

By GAYNOR MADDON
Tomorrow is Child Health Day, 25th anniversary of the first presidential proclamation for national observance of May 1 as Child Health Day.

Last year, 1952, saw the record-smashing arrival of almost 4,000,000 babies — 3,882,000 is the estimate. That's reason enough for observing this day.

Also cheering news is the continuing drop in the infant mortality rate, which last year reached its lowest point of 28.6 per 1000 live births. For the third successive year, this rate has been under 30, a startling contrast to 40.1 only a decade ago, in 1942.

The reduction of infant mortality within the past 10 years can be credited with a saving of 50,000 infant lives in 1952 alone, notes Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Contributing to this gain in infant lives is today's percentage of hospital births (88.9 per cent of registered births), and vastly improved nutrition for mothers and babies, notably during the critical prenatal period.

Diet is high on the doctor's "what-to-do" list. American mothers have access to accurate information on the well-rounded diet from medical and government sources, nutrition experts, food writers. Mothers are using this knowledge daily and babies are gaining faster, showing their good health in many ways.

For instance, today's babies double their weight sooner than did newborns 10 years ago, according to pediatrics research in a group of New York City hospitals. The majority of infants now double their weight by the fourth month, some by the third. This is a tribute to early prescription of a variety of foods usually headed by cod liver oil, some form of vitamin C and special baby cereals.

When it comes to foods, the doctor is generous and baby's menu reaches sizable proportions in the second month. Keeping step with medical thinking, baby-food companies are developing more and more high-chair specialties. Next to nutritive values, true flavor and color are chief aims in baby foods research.

Rain, Snow Winds Strike Wide Area

By The Associated Press

Rain and snow, with strong winds, hit wide areas of the country today from the Rocky mountains to the Appalachians.

Winds, with gusts up to 50 to 60 miles an hour, whipped over some Midwest areas during the night but diminished this morning. Storm warnings, however, remained posted on all the Great Lakes except Lake Ontario.

A storm center over Northeastern Oklahoma and Eastern Kansas dominated the weather pattern over the country. General rainfall was reported over the Northern Plains with showers and thunderstorms in the Mississippi Valley.

Light snow fell in Western South Dakota, Eastern Wyoming and Northwestern Nebraska. Falls measured two inches at Moorcroft, Wyo., and one inch at Rapid City, S. D., and Chandron, Neb.

Heavy thunderstorms occurred in the lower Mississippi Valley. One of the areas heaviest hit was Jackson, Miss., which reported a rainfall of nearly five inches.

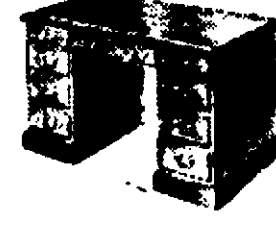

There was some dimming of the strong winds which swept parts of New Mexico and Western Texas. The winds raised great clouds of dust and reduced visibility to as low as one-quarter mile in some places.

BACK IN THE USA—Some of the 35 repatriated prisoners who arrived at Travis Air Base, Calif., from Japan walk off the ambulance plane which brought them from Honolulu on the final leg of their overseas homelike. It was only a week before that they were freed from Communist prison camps. (AP wirephoto)

Our Shabby, Overrun Cities Need To Get Move on Now

Every day America's major cities get deeper into a crisis that most are doing very little about. One can't help wondering what kind of shock they'll need to jar them into action. In simplest terms, it's a crisis of too many people and too many automobiles, with not enough space for either.

The years ahead will see the problem grow worse. In the early 1960's, U. S. population will have risen from the present 159 million to around 175 million. Clogging city streets will be 25 per cent more cars than the 53 million rolling today.

These irresistible trends will overwhelm the cities if they do not act now to prepare for the change.

Millions of new houses and apartments will be needed, since the World War II baby crop will then be reaching the marrying and house-hunting age.

Miles of wider and better roadways will be needed, and acres of parking space as well.

Looking at the performance of most cities today doesn't give one heart that the job will be done.

They are mired in congestion. Cars move in city traffic like the crystalline particles in a mountain glacier. City facilities of many sorts—schools, sewer systems, streets—aren't kept in decent repair, let alone up to the pace of population growth.

Worst of all, housing is falling woefully behind urban requirements. New construction for ownership or rental is not meeting demand in the moderate and low income brackets. Moreover, such housing as exists is being allowed to deteriorate and even decay at an alarming rate. Recently a New York City grand jury reported slums being created faster than they can be wiped out.

Face it—our cities are taking on a shabby, unkempt look. They are overrun. Generally, the things we do to meet the difficulties are a small bite. Sometimes these things only promote congestion instead of easing it.

The cities ought to be their own masters. They should not need or want to turn to the federal government for solution of their problems. They must find some way to get out of the vicious circle of higher and higher taxes with less and less results.

They need to plan big and drastically, not for next year but for the next generation. Otherwise, they may wake up to find that, in a curious negative fashion, they have been planning anyway—planning their own destruction.

Senate's Verbal Athlete

Sen. Wayne Morse, the self-proclaimed "liberal" independent who never lets a single one of his "liberal" moves escape the nation's attention, was in rare form the other day. He spoke continuously for 22 hours.

This is some sort of record, even for Morse, whose vocal chords are not easily overtaxed.

One might hope that in racking it up, the Oregonian borrowed heavily from his future talking time in the senate, and will now be silent a while to compensate. But perhaps this performance has only opened up new vistas to him, which he will proceed to explore regularly—and at great length.

It would be interesting to examine the field kit Morse takes along on these verbal safaris. One item would of course be a finely honed knife for the splitting of legal hairs and perhaps for cutting notches in his desk to serve as guideposts, Boy Scout style.

Another might be a small hammer for driving home points. He has too many to make to use the old fist-on-palm method. No human hands could stand it.

A listener's kit would be smaller. Just earmuffs.

Major League Foot Bills of Many Minor League Baseball Clubs, Pegler Asserts After Talk With Commissioner Frick

Under the impression that organized baseball was declining, I consulted Ford Frick, the national commissioner, or "czar," as we used to call that office, proposing an appraisal of the institution today and a comparison with the situation in 1913. Minor league baseball seemed to me to offer a bleak and lawless life to young men. Many of the low minors travel by bus and receive meal allowances on the road which restrict the players to hamburgers, hot dogs and meat loaf.

The Mexicans in the southwest are used to beans and some of them actually knock down money even on an allowance of $3.50 a day. However, that is not a new problem. In the lean days of the Philadelphia Athletics after the first war, when the allowance was $2.50 on the road, there was a standing jest to the effect that some of the athletes saved $1.25 a day and showed up so weak that they couldn't get out of their tracks. The Giants and Yankees, at the other extreme, let their men sign tabs in the hotel dining rooms and eat themselves "out of the league" if they had no better sense.

A few years back, one club in a Class D league was bedding down its players six to a room on cots in hotel sample-rooms when for 50 cents a "more they could have had single rooms. With a player limit of 1, this meant only $18 a day more, on the road, in a relatively short season and not in all the road towns, at that.

But the fact must be remembered that many such little clubs cannot draw enough money to break even for the simple reason that the American public has either lost a degree of interest in small-time professional ball or has divided its interest and available spending money with many competing attractions which did not exist 40 years ago. The pay is small in all the low minors, income taxes bite deep, the young men are unsettled in their plans and the "glamor" of the status of professional ball-player has waned. In many cases, the chamber of commerce spirit of local automobile dealers and other captains of industry has made up deficits year after year for the sole purpose of sparing their towns the stigma of dismissal from their wanted leagues for want of support.

These are facts, but Mr. Frick surprises me with the news that as against 41 leagues in 1913, there are 40 leagues going today but with 307 clubs as against 264 then. The explanation lies in the fact that there were many more leagues with only four or six clubs than there are now. Eight clubs is the standard size. Moreover, Ford points out, the number of players allowed for each club has been increased in most leagues and that many more athletes are employed regularly now.

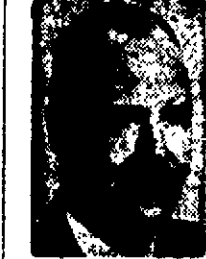

Remembering that 40 years ago our papers carried from dozens to hundreds of scores by innings, great expanses of box-scores and columns of "challenges" by the Little Tornadoes and North Side Tigers, usually with a requirement that their opposition be equipped with "suits," I underestimated the volume of sand-lot and other amateur ball today. Incidentally, this phase of our journalism was a racket in New York and probably other cities. A half-dollar enclosed in the envelope with the score or "challenge" delivered by the manager of the aspiring team had an influence on the "diamond dust" editor in his selection of items and their placement on the page.

"The development of communication and travel facilities has had its impact on baseball," Ford writes. "In 1913, the 41 leagues were scattered helter-skelter. Many of the four-club and six-club leagues were augmented by unstable semi-pro clubs. The drawing power of a club was limited to an area of about 15 miles. With the development of our highways and high speed motors the drawing area extended to 100 miles so that many small-town clubs, like the little red schoolhouse, have disappeared. If one could forget property rights and investment, and start all over it would be possible to cover the entire United States with 25 minor leagues with a club handy to every city of 25,000 or over.

"I think salaries in Class D are inadequate. For the boy of ability however, the field is wide open. Salaries in the majors and high minors are far above those paid in other lines of business for similar experience and ability.

"What has happened is that there has been a realignment of interest. In 1913, golf was in its infancy; high school football was little known; basketball was new; tennis was played only in wealthy centers and baseball was the one great American game. Today these other sports share headlines and participant and spectator interest. Despite this, however, more amateur teams exist, offering more opportunity for basic training than ever before. Witness the growth of the Little League movement. In a few years it has grown from nothing to some 5,000 uniformed teams with more than 50,000 youngsters actually participating. The American Legion program is even larger.

"Our chiefest problem has not been competition or inability to maintain the interest of the public. Most of our difficulties have

The Doctor Says:

Leg Pains Often Result of Foot or Circulation Ills

By EDWIN P. JORDON, M. D.

A common cause of pain in the legs is the result of foot trouble, particularly flat feet. When the arches have collapsed and are flat, new strains appear. These strains are sometimes felt in the feet, but sometimes also they act on the muscles or joints of the legs and cause pain in these areas more than in the feet themselves.

Incidentally, flat feet can cause backache, fatigue and several other things which too often go unrecognized.

Pain of such origin should, of course, be treated by correcting the foot trouble. This involves more than just wearing a pad or support. Instruction in standing and walking is important; special exercises, contrast foot baths and other measures are usually needed in addition to proper shoeing.

Another type of pain in the legs is one which comes on in the calf muscles after walking a few blocks rapidly or climbing stairs. This condition goes under the name of intermittent claudication. It is caused by insufficient supply of blood to the muscles because of hardening of the arteries in the legs.

During rest the circulation is adequate, but exercise increases the need for blood. This condition always requires the advice of a doctor, because it may be a sign of hardening of the arteries elsewhere as well. A person with this kind of pain should avoid taking so much exercise that it brings on the pain.

A lot of people complain of pains in the legs which occur at night only and which may even wake them up from a sound sleep. This is a rather puzzling condition but it is probably connected somehow with the circulation of the blood in the legs.

OTHER POSSIBLE CAUSES

People with this symptom often say that if they get up and walk around for a short time the pain or cramp will disappear. In others walking around does not relieve the pain and other measures have to be tried.

Neuritis or sciatica can also cause leg pains. Other diseases of the circulation, such as Buerger's disease, are possibilities. Tumors of a bone or joint, arthritis and some other rare conditions have to be considered in people who have leg pains, the cause of which cannot be readily identified.

YES AND NO

Many historians claim that the state of Washington was not named for the first President of the United States, but for Captain Robert Gray's sloop.

Watch Singletons in High Bidding

By OSWALD JACOBY

When both sides are willing to make high bids, it is only reasonable to expect unbalanced distribution. In such a situation, you must be on the watch for singletons. South's lack of caution in this respect cost him an easy game contract in today's hand.

West opened the king of diamonds, and dummy won with the ace. South saw a chance to get rid of his diamond loser, so he promptly led out the ace and king of hearts, throwing his losing diamond on the second top heart.

South's happiness was short-lived.

suit, limiting dummy to one ruff. But now, with the trumps drawn, South can afford to cash dummy's top heart in order to discard the one low club that he cannot ruff. If the defenders fail to lead trumps, of course, South can ruff both of his low clubs in the dummy. No matter what the defenders do, they cannot defeat the contract.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: North East South West 1 Spade Pass 2 Dnds. Pass 2 Spades Pass ? You, South, hold: Spades K-8-2, Hearts Q-7-4-2, Diamonds A-Q-J-7-5, Club 9. What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. You have a count of 12 points in normal high cards, 2 points for the singleton, and 1 point extra for the king in your partner's bid suit. This was enough for a double raise to begin with except that you could not afford to jump raise with only three trumps. Now that your partner shows a rebidable suit you must make sure of getting to game.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 8-3, Hearts Q-10-4, Diamonds A-Q-J-7-5, Clubs K-9-6. What do you do?

Answer Tomorrow

lived. West ruffed the king of hearts and immediately led his remaining trump. East took the ace of spades and returned his other trump, thus limiting the dummy to one ruffing trick. Since South could ruff only one club in dummy, he eventually had to give up one club trick to West's ace and another to East's jack. The loss of two club tricks was more than he could afford.

South should have made his game contract with perfect ease. There was no need to risk a second round of hearts.

After South wins the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds, the correct play is to lead a low club at once from the dummy. South plays the king of clubs to force out West's ace, thus allowing West to take his diamond trick as well.

After West has taken a club and a diamond, he may, if he wishes, lead a trump. If so, East takes the ace of trumps and returns the

Severe Penalty

MERCED, Calif. (U)—School-age traffic violators face a terrifying penalty during the football season this fall.

Superior Judge Gregory P. Maushart suggested a weekly two-hour class for traffic violators to reduce the growing number of traffic violations by teen-agers.

The class would be held on the same nights as high school football games.

University To Receive More Funds

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Sen. Everett R. Peters (R-St. Joseph), chairman of the State Budgetary Commission, announced Wednesday the state will provide the University of Illinois with an additional $2,650,000.

Peters said, however, that this is all the state will do toward giving the university the added funds it says it will need in its 1953-54 budget.

Still Short

The money—in addition to $600,000 the school will receive from increased tuition fees voted recently—will bring the total budget up to $79,316,000. This is still $1,004,000 less than the $80,320,000 University President George D. Stoddard said the school would need to maintain the "status quo" for the next two years.

The announcement of the increase came after a meeting Tuesday of Governor William G. Stratton, Morten H. Hollingsworth, state finance director; Lloyd G. Morey, university comptroller, and Sen. Peters. Morey and Peters announced that:

1. Stratton has agreed to give the university an additional two million dollars. This will be brought about by transferring that amount from the agricultural premium fund to the general revenue fund, and transferring the same sum from the general fund to the school.

2. The administration will support a bill providing that veterans must pay their tuition to the university if they get money for their tuitions from the Veterans Administration.

Past Procedure

The procedure in the past has been for the government to pay the university the veterans' tuition. Under the new policy, in effect this year, the government will pay the veterans, who will pay the tuition. But under a state law in Illinois veterans get free tuition to the school. The new bill is designed to correct this situation.

3. The state has agreed to permit the university to spend another $250,000 if the university can pick it up through some means.

The total budget of $79,316,000 is the amount which Stratton originally proposed. However, at that time the university said he had over-estimated university income by $3,250,000. That amount now has been made up—in the $2,650,000 announced Wednesday plus the $600,000 in increased tuition fees.

Mom Steals Shoes For Baby, Actress Comes to Defense

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP) — Last Sunday a worried mother stole a pair of baby shoes for one of her three small children.

She did it, she told police because for lack of shoes the tot was unable to play outdoors.

Today Mrs. Patricia Morrison, 27, has a $100 check from Actress Merle Oberon, and Miss Oberon's attorney is to represent her when she appears for sentencing May 20. Mrs. Morrison pleaded guilty to petty theft charges Monday.

She also has received lesser sums of money from other well wishers, two pairs of shoes from a lady in Beverly Hills, and the offer of a rent-free home.

Harold Keller, 32, an unemployed welder, surrendered himself to police after Mrs. Morrison's arrest and said he was responsible for her trouble. He brought her here in 1948 after deserting his wife and three children in West New York, N. J., he said.

Police are holding him on charges of passing worthless checks.

MONTEBELLO, Calif. (AP) — A 12-year-old girl, object of an all-night search by police and hundreds of neighbors, walked into a Hollywood store Wednesday and announced: "I've been abducted. I want to phone my mother."

Name Director, Plans for Camp. John Ralston

Members of the Dixon Girl Scouts Council and Scout leaders are busily engaged in plans to open Camp John Ralston the first of June. Mrs. M. L. Skelton, Rock Falls, has been selected as camp director, and will start local training courses soon for Troop and Brownie leaders.

Mrs. Skelton has had many years of scouting experience and is particularly competent in all phases of outdoor camping. Her skill in handicraft has been highly recommended and she has suggested many other entertaining and useful projects for the coming camp season. Her understanding of Girl Scouts and their natural desire for true camping experiences makes her a qualified director and instructor.

Cooking, singing, hiking, handicraft work, treasure hunts and nature study are some of the activities being planned.

Camp Ralston will open June 1, with three weeks of Troop camping. Brownie Day camp will begin June 29 and last through July 3.

Select Dates

Mrs. George Stiles, camp chairman, is urging all girl scouts and leaders to select their preferred dates for camping now and contact Mrs. George Reed, 619 Ottawa av. for registration.

Brownies must be registered for Day Camp by May 29 and as in past years their registration fee will include bus transportation to and from camp, milk and program materials.

Camp bulletins containing the necessary information and registration forms will be distributed to all Brownies attending Play Day May 16 in Lowell park.

Girls in the first four grades of school although not registered Brownies are also welcome to attend Day camp.

Much Interest

The local council anticipates early registration as widespread interest in camping is evident this season.

Elizabeth Hoon Wins DePauw U Scholarship

GREENCASTLE, Ind.—(Special)—Miss Elizabeth Hoon, 321 East McKenney st., Dixon, has been awarded a President's scholarship to DePauw university. It was announced today by Dr. John J. Wittich, director of admissions.

Miss Hoon, whose scholarship is for the school of music at DePauw, was one of only 14 high school seniors in the country to receive such a scholarship, valued at $200, to be applied toward first-year tuition.

Ten President's scholarships were awarded to students entering the college of liberal arts next fall and four to those entering the school of music. Six additional music grants will be presented later.

The stipends were given on the basis of high school record, personal interviews and tests administered by the university's bureau of testing and research. Miss Hoon was interviewed and tested on the campus during the recent Scholarship Weekend, April 17-19.

DePauw annually awards more than 350 scholarships, grants-in-aid, and prizes to incoming freshmen and to upperclass students.

Asparagus Tips

When buying that fresh, green asparagus which is becoming plentiful at the store, be sure to look for stalks that are straight, plump and firm.

The tip is another point that requires scrutiny. It should be compact and dark green. If the tip has started to open, the asparagus is too mature, or it has been badly handled.

Use asparagus soon after you buy it, since it loses flavor and quality quickly. If it must be held, store it in the refrigerator.

Lacquer is not a point and has no oil in its composition. Therefore, it should never be put on over paint or enamel. Since it dries very fast—in about 20 minutes—it should be flooded on with a perfectly clean brush rather than brushed as in a paint job.

Lift the blinds in and out of the water until they're clean; use a soft brush or sponge on any particularly soiled spots. Rinse the blinds in clear water, hang them full length to drain, then wipe them dry. A weight at the bottom of the blinds while the tapes are still damp, will help to keep the tapes from shrinking.

Shocking Story of Privation

Connecticut GI Amputated Toes Frozen in March

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

TOKYO (AP)—"I'll give you a week to live—I get your boots when they take you to the hill," a buddy told Cpl. Wendell H. Trefery.

"My buddy didn't want my boots—he was building up my morale," the thin, red-haired Trefery, of Terryville, Conn., said in an interview today.

The hill was the frozen, common grave of Americans who died while prisoners of the Communists at Kangye, Korea, in the terrible winter of 1950-51.

"I lasted the week," said Trefery. "And then he said he'd get my boots in another week. I kept on living—I wouldn't let myself die. Whenever I got awful low, really down in the gutter, I could hear my mother saying like she always said: 'Keep your chin up.'"

Only 40 Live

Of 350 U. S. infantrymen captured by Chinese on Nov. 30, 1950, south of the Chungjin Reservoir, Trefery is one of less than 40 still living.

His feet froze.

A Korean nurse snipped off eight of his toes with garden shears.

He broke off two with his own fingers.

During four attacks of dysentery, Trefery's weight dropped from 150 to 60 pounds.

A former medic with the 7th Division, he was one of the American prisoners returned by the Communists at Panmunjon last week. Here is his agonizing story as he told it today:

"We were caught in a Communist ambush, about 350 of us—
Marines and 7th Division men.

"A Chinese hollered from the top of a hill—asking our senior officer to come and talk to him.

Made Deal

"The major had made a deal with the Chinese. The deal was, that our wounded would be sent back to our own lines if the rest of us surrendered. The promise was not kept.

"The Chinese marched those of us away who could walk. We spent a freezing night in some cabins not far away. There were 120 of us then. Next morning we were marched back past where the ambush had taken place. The wounded were all still there, only now they weren't wounded. They were frozen to death, about 230 bodies.

"Of the 120 of us, many were wounded. I am a medic, and I did the best I could. The Chinese took away my bandages, tweezers and scissors but I hid my last six shots of morphine in my boot and when a man's pain got so bad he couldn't take it I'd give him a shot.

Left To Die

"The march to Kangye lasted 18 days. We marched zig-zag and in every direction. I think they were trying to break us down.
When a man couldn't go any farther and dropped out, he was left to die. The ones that dropped out—we never saw them again.

"I had a shrapnel wound in the chest, but it didn't bother me. On the second day, we walked through slush and that night I slept in a cow stall. The temperature dropped to about 20 below zero that night. I woke up next morning and my feet were frozen. The Chinese had us out in the road before I had a chance to get my toes unfrozen.

"On Dec. 10 the Chinese guards turned us over to Korean guards and the march went on. They have no feeling for human beings.
They'd stick our men with bayonets and laugh and joke about it.

"Of the 120 who started the march, 80 got to the valley camp at Kangye where we spent the rest of the winter. The Koreans locked all of us up in a big room. They wouldn't let us out to use a latrine. So our living quarters were our latrine. We all had dysentery by that time and you can see that the room wasn't a good place to be after awhile.

Bones Stick Out

"I was unconscious for three days after we got to Kangye. All the meat came off the bottom of my feet and all of the meat came off my toes and the bones were sticking out.

"In February a Korean nurse gave me the first medical attention I got, if you could call it that.
She walked in with a pair of garden shears and clipped off eight of my toe bones, leaving the big toe bones. I broke them off later with my fingers.

"All we had to eat was maize and tops off a cane—we called it sorghum. With dysentery, I got down to 60 pounds.

"I stopped the dysentery by sucking salt all day long and by burning maize to a crisp and eating it. I treated my feet by cutting up my cotton blanket and making bandages for them. By April, when

Girl Scouts Study City Government

DIXON'S MAYOR WILLIAM SLOTHOWER, pictured above in the council room of the city hall Tuesday, is explaining some of the procedures of city government to a group of Dixon Girl Scouts. The mayor's discussion of local government was in conjunction with efforts of the Junior High Girl Scout troop of South Central school in their study of the government badge. Slothower also answered questions of the group regarding government law. The visit to the city hall was part of the troop's program of trips to state, county, and city government centers to acquire first hand data on the workings of those bodies. Mayor Slothower has voiced on various occasions his approval of interviews made by the younger generation. He is strong in his opinion that such visits go a long way toward creating a better understanding of the problems of government. The knowledge learned by the youth of the nation in the workings of government often rights many misinterpretations held by persons who are completely uninformed on the subject. Slothower contends.

Minor Damage In Auto Crash At Swissville

Minor damages resulted in an automobile accident early today involving a truck driven by Robert P. Farster, Dixon, and a car operated by Lyle Dodd, Rock Falls.

Sheriff Charles Redebaugh, Lee county, who investigated, said the mishap occurred at 7:30 a.m. on Alt. Rt. 30 and Fourth avenue in Swissville, a quarter mile west of the Dixon city limits.

The collision happened as Dodd attempted to pass the truck as it was about to make a left turn, Redebaugh said. No one was injured.

we were taken by truck to Camp No. 1 near the Yalu, only 40 of us were left.

Broke Off Toe

"At Camp No. 1, they tried to put me in the hospital. I didn't want to go to the hospital, because too many of the men were going to the hospital and not coming back. One of my big toe bones needed attention and a Chinese guard asked me about it. He stepped out of the room a minute. I had a long thumb nail. I reached down and snapped the bone off. When the Chinese came back in the room I showed him there was no longer any bone. He went away and I didn't have to go to the hospital.

"In August, 1952, the Communists transferred me to another camp—No. 4, also near the Yalu.
"It was a camp for what they called 'reactionaries.' I never would go for any of their dectures
and I refused to write any articles

Amboy Resident Drops Charges Of Auto Theft

Charges of larceny of a motor vehicle levied against a Dixon man last week were dismissed Wednesday at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Sterling Schrock.

The case was dropped by the justice of the peace at the request of the complaining witness. Floyd Koch, Amboy, who had signed the complaint, said that he no longer desired to prosecute Charles Gillan, 33, of 1125 W. Eighth st.

Koch had Gillan arrested by Dixon police when he charged that Gillan had taken his car on April 21.

According to Chief Frank Tyne, Koch and Gillan had been together during the afternoon of the alleged theft. The defendant, unable to post a $1,000 bond had been held in the county jail since his arrest.

Charge Man With Killing Contractor

CHICAGO (U)—Big Sam Cannata, with a record of arrests for pandering and assault, today was charged with murdering a Park Ridge building contractor Tuesday after an argument in a North Side restaurant.

Cannata, who witnesses said followed Arnold L. Spietz, 53, out of the restaurant, told police he "pushed Spietz in self-defense" when Spietz threatened him with a "coffee-filled milk bottle." The shattered bottle was found near Spietz' body.

The coroner's report said Spietz died of head injuries caused by a blunt instrument.

Cannata who said he is a bartender, cab driver and "self-employed distributor" will be arraigned in Felony Court Friday.

Doris Mahat, 23-year-old divorcee and mother of twins, who accompanied Spietz to the restaurant a few doors away from her hotel at 3134 Broadway, is charged with disorderly conduct. She will be arraigned Monday in Women's Court.

A theater manager who told police he put Spietz out of the restaurant after Spietz quarreled with other patrons, is charged with assault. The theater man, Andrew Kish, 45, also will be arraigned in Felony Court Friday.

"Don't seem like Derby week to me," says Jones since all his Derby hopefuls were eliminated for one reason or another. (AP wirephoto)

Actress' Hubby Given Divorce

LOS ANGELES (U)—Vivica Lindfors' husband won a divorce on testimony that "she was in love with another man."

Movie director Donald Siegel

Jet Ace Gets His 12th MIG

SEOUL (U)—Capt. Manuel Fernandez shot down his 12th MIG today in "the roughest fight I ever had" to tie the individual record for destruction of the Russian-built Red fighters over Korea.

The scrappy 27-year-old jet ace from Miami destroyed the MIG in a fierce air battle just south of the Yalu River. He tied the mark set last month by Col. Royal Baker of McKinney, Tex., who has gone home.

Ground fighting remained light for the fifth straight day.

Fernandez, who asked for 25 more missions after flying the required 100, has 14 left. He's going after the over-all mark of 15 Red planes set by Maj. George Davis, who destroyed 11 MIGs and three propeller-driven planes before he crashed in Red territory in February, 1952.

Red broadcasters took advantage of the ground lull to blare across to Allied troops:

"Thank you for your good treatment of our prisoners of war."

A woman's broadcast voice cooed in the Panmunjom truce sector.

"There is peace in Korea. Lay down your arms."

McCarthy Says Reds Own Ships

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today Chinese Communists are at least part owners of some ships hauling goods to Red China under pledged protection of the British navy.

McCarthy said he has evidence also that the French government owns three ships carrying cargoes to the Chinese Reds, and has yet to pay the U. S. government in full for any of them.

McCarthy said he hopes to shed light on the cargoes involved when his Senate investigations subcommittee, explores these and other matters in public hearings Monday. The hearings previously had been scheduled for Friday.

The U. S. has banned American shipments to Red China and Britain and France have forbidden ships flying their flags to carry strategic materials to either the China mainland or North Korea.

McCarthy contends there has been widespread violation of that order.

Influence Man Given Jail Term

WASHINGTON (U)—E. Mel Young today was sentenced to leave from four months to two years in prison for lying to senators who dug into his mink coat buying and high financing while investigating alleged influence on RFC loans.

Young, 38, asked for probation but U. S. District Judge Matthew F. McGuire turned down the plea. However, the judge expressed the hope authorities will feel the interests of justice have been served when Young completes four months in prison.

Taking into account good time, Young could get out by serving a little less than four months.

He Suffers
Young told Judge McGuire he has "suffered mentally, physically and financially." He said the judge would not regret it if he granted probation.

The judge replied that if Young had been convicted of an ordinary crime flowing out of human frailty, he would have been inclined to grant him probation.

"But perjury strikes very deeply at the whole structure of government," the judge commented.

He said that in passing sentence he was taking into consideration Young's background, "the fact this was your first misstep, and your family circumstances."

Judge McGuire imposed the same sentence—four months to two years—on each of the four perjury charges of which Young was convicted March 31. But he stipulated that the sentences run together, instead of one after the other.

Too Low?
William A. Paisley of the Justice department, who prosecuted the case, questioned whether, under the statute, the judge had imposed a sentence too low.

The judge told him he considered the sentence proper in his interpretation of the statute.

BELLELEVILLE, Ill. (U)—The city of Belleville finished its last fiscal year with a $78,291 surplus. It was the fifth successive year the city operated without a deficit.

Retiring City Clerk Robert L. Bell said Wednesday income was $1,284,936 compared with expenses of $1,205,945.

New Gadget May Bring Global TV

LOS ANGELES (U)—The dream of global television may be brought to reality by the new midget crystal amplifying devices called transistors, an industry engineer told broadcasters today.

Neal McNaughton, manager of engineering for the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, said use of transistors in cables might make it possible to transmit TV programs across water gaps too wide to be jumped by microwave radio beams.

"The answer," he said at the engineering conference of the association's annual convention, "lies in a submarine transistor cable using a transistor repeater unit—smaller than a cigarette—to augment microwave relays between the continents of the world."

Network transmission of TV programs over long distances now is handled by two methods—microwave radio beams relayed between hilltop or mountaintop towers averaging 25 miles apart, and underground coaxial cables. Neither method, however, will work over long water gaps.

Even though a microwave radio beam easily travels far enough to bridge the longest water gap necessary on a route connecting this country with Europe, it travels in a straight line and does not follow the earth's curvature.

The coaxial cable requires repeater or amplifier stations every few miles to strengthen the signal. Such cables could not be operated under the ocean for long distances because of the high electric current requirements of present type repeaters using vacuum tubes.

Farm Prices Skid Again

WASHINGTON (U)—Prices farmers get for their products have skidded again.

The Agriculture Department reported Wednesday farm product prices dropped 2 per cent between mid-March and mid-April to land at a point 10 1/2 per cent below that of a year ago.

The decline was the biggest in any one month since the Eisenhower administration took office. There had previously been a long decline, extending well back into the Truman administration.

Cattle, milk, some grains and vegetables were among the price losers. Hogs, lambs, eggs and rice went up, but not enough to offset the losses.

Eisenhower Will Go on Speech Tour

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower is tentatively scheduled to make five speeches away from Washington from June 10 through June 11—with some fishing in between.

The White House said Wednesday the fishing probably would be in South Dakota's Black Hills midway in this speaking schedule:

June 10 at Minneapolis; June 11 at Rapid City, S. D.; June 11 at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N. H.; and June 11 at Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

Braves Beat Giants on Homer

HERE IS A DIAGRAM showing how Milwaukee first baseman Joe Adcock propelled a line drive into the centerfield bleachers in New York's Polo Grounds Wednesday in the third inning of the game with the Giants. The ball traveled 475 feet into the 10th row of the seats. It was the longest ball ever hit into the bleachers in a regular major league game since the park was remodeled in 1923. Milwaukee won the game, 3-2.

'Scared' Davey Starts His Comeback With TKO Win

DETROIT (AP)—"I was scared. I could feel the pressure of all those people looking at me."

He had just started his comeback in impressive fashion, scoring a technical knockout over Sammy Giuliani in 31 seconds of the 10th and final round of their nationally televised fight at the Olympia.

Results: Disastrous. Only 6,038 fans saw Davey fight in the flesh Wednesday night. So by "everybody" he must have meant the millions of TV viewers who were looking in to see if Davey had learned anything from that battering he took from Kid Gavilan. Davey had disappointed his TV followers last February against Gavilan, who knocked him down four times to successfully defend his welterweight title.

Gavilan flaunted his skills that night, turning southpaw like Davey, turning the same — and the results were disastrous.

"I did my best work when he turned left-handed," Davey said.

None of Derby Owners in Winners Circle Before

LOUISVILLE (AP)—The 79th Kentucky Derby Saturday might well be labeled the "Newcomers Derby."

Not one of the owners of the 12 probable starters ever has seen any of his horses led into the winner's circle.

With the exception of Greentree Stable, owned by John Hay Whitney and his sister, Mrs. C. S. Payson, and Charles T. Fisher's Dixiana Farm, no owner ever has had more than one thoroughbred in the $100,000 added 3-year-old turf classic.

Greentree, which will be represented by the well-regarded Straight Face Saturday, sent out two winners, Twenty Grand in 1931 and Shut Out in 1942.

Dixiana colors, which will be carried by Spy Defense Saturday, have been represented in nine previous derbies but never came closer than second.

Cubs, Sox Lose, Bums Gain Ground

Adcock Hits First Homer to Center At Polo Grounds

By The Associated Press. If the current rash of long-ball hitting in the majors continues, they're going to have to supply the bleacherites with gloves.

First it was Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, then Mathews of the Braves, then Mantle again and now Joe Adcock of the Braves. And the season is only two weeks old.

Mantle still holds the record for the campaign, his first blow traveling 562 feet.

But in the matter of a accomplishment, Adcock's Wednesday off the Giants' Jim Hearn was the most notable. It came with one on and helped the Braves to a 3-2 triumph over the Giants.

475 Ft. Homer. It was the first ball ever hit into the centerfield bleachers of the Polo Grounds during a regular season game. The ball traveled 475 feet.

As things turned out, the Braves won the game in the ninth inning when knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm's wild pitch let in a runner from third.

The league-leading Philadelphia Phillies lost a full game to the Brooklyn Dodgers, but the second-place Chicago Cubs also were beaten, so Chuck Dressen's defending champions gained on both leaders.

11 Innings. Curt Simmons gave up only three hits, but the St. Louis Cardinals beat him in the 11th inning of the night contest, 1-0, when Bill Johnson doubled home Rip Repulski. The defeat was the first of the season for Simmons.

The Cubs went down to a 4-3 defeat at the hands of the struggling Pittsburgh Pirates. By their victory, the Buccos moved into a tie for sixth place with the Giants.

Little Milt Dickson went all the way for the Pirates. The Cubs scored twice in the eighth to break a 1-0 tie, but the Pirates came right back with three in their half of the inning. Pete Castiglione knocked in two runs with a timely single.

Passed Ball. The Dodgers edged the Cincinnati Redlegs, 6-5. Roy Campanella tied the score with a home run with one on in the eighth.

Redleg catcher Hebe Landrith let the winning run in when he was charged with a passed ball in the ninth. Carl Furillo, who was on third after doubling to open the inning, scored.

In the American League, the Indians gained half a game on the idle Yankees when Earl Wynn pitched them to a 2-1 decision over the Philadelphia A's. The Tribe now is one game behind the Yanks.

Boxing Win. Both Indian runs came about in the same way. In the third Dale Mitchell singled, scoring Ray Boone, who had singled and gone to second on a sacrifice. In the fifth, Mitchell again singled, this time scoring Wynn, who had singled and advanced on a sacrifice.

Bob Porterfield hurled the Washington Senators to a 3-0 conquest over the Chicago White Sox. All he needed was one run in the third inning to wrap it up, but catcher Les Peden hit a home run in the eighth and Clyde Velmer singled across another run in the ninth.

The Boston Red Sox pulled their average up to .500 by bombing the hapless Detroit Tigers, 10-4. Sammy White knocked in five runs and George Kell went into the league lead in batting with a .457 average. The loss was the Tigers' 13th in 15 games.

N. Y. Times Says Racing Booming

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times today in reporting an attendance survey said attendance at horse races is booming while crowds are declining at major league baseball games, basketball and football.

The paper cited these figures: Last year 29,177,027 persons flocked to 77 major running tracks in the United States and Canada, an increase of 2,160,026 over 1951. Last year, 16,708,590 attended the trotting races.

In the same years major league baseball attendance dropped from 16,126,676 to 14,635,457 while minor league attendance declined from 27,625,529 to 26,305,328.

Similar slumps have been noted in football and basketball.

What's Th' Score

A RELEASE FROM THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS indicates that Coach Ray Eliot may have found the answer to the expected confusion resulting from the end of the two platoon system.

Since I'm in a rather lazy mood today having seen all the rain I care to for awhile, I'll let the release speak for itself.

THE "EXPERIMENT OF THE RED BENCH," Ray Eliot's answer to the substitution problem under 1953 rules, has been so successful that the Illinois football coach gives it unqualified recommendation for adoption by conferences on a nationwide basis.

Eliot employed his idea in the annual spring coaching clinic. Both Blue and White squads were equipped with regular benches for players plus the special red bench.

WHEN A PLAYER who had been in the game during any period was removed and thus became ineligible to return, he automatically sat down on the red bench.

It was a big help to the coaches in charge," Eliot said. "There was absolutely no confusion among either coaches or players as to eligibility to return."

OFFICIALS WHO WROTE THE GAME, a regular Big Ten team, were unanimous in their praise of the system, and I believe it added to spectator enjoyment since fans could easily identify players who were not eligible to re-enter the game."

ELIOT'S IDEAS WERE ECHOED by Eddie Eidelatz, Navy head coach, and Hugh "Duffy" Daugherty, Michigan State line coach, who were clinic speakers and observed the experiment. Sentiment was favorable also among high school coaches attending, although they do not face this problem since platoon football will be continued in Illinois prep circles in 1953.

"Use of the red bench was especially notable in the second and fourth periods," Eliot pointed out. "Under current regulations, players who have been in and out of the game in the second and fourth periods may return in the last four minutes of these quarters. Officials are required to notify each coach at the four-minute mark."

WHEN SUCH NOTIFICATION OCCURRED in our game, there was a general exodus from the red benches back to regular benches, indicating players quickly understood their return to eligible status."

Eliot feels the system will be much more effective if both home and visiting teams will employ the red bench idea. He will recommend adoption of the plan to Big Ten football coaches at their meeting here May 28.

Hogan Favored In Pan-Am Open

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Ben Hogan, golf's semi-retired capitalist, ruled a heavy favorite as play opened today in the 72-hole Pan American Open tournament.

Two of the men most capable of beating Hogan were absent, Lloyd Mangrum, defending Pan Am title, said he was passing up the event because the sponsors offered Hogan a $5,000 appearance bonus while the same sort of lure wasn't given him. Pan Am sponsors denied the $5,000 offer to Hogan. They said they offered Mangrum $1,000 to come.

Rochelle Clergy Protests Sunday Centennial Fete

ROCHELLE—Protestant ministers of this city have gone on record as opposed to holding Rochelle's centennial parade on Sunday, June 14, "or any other Sunday."

A letter signed by the ministers which protested the parade date was received this week by the chamber of commerce. DeWitt Osgood, chamber president, said "a lot of provisions have been arranged which would be difficult to rearrange."

Osgood said the parade was to have wound up the week-long Centennial activities.

300 Units Organized

"We have organized over 300 marching units and floats from Rochelle and the community. Many of them would not be able to participate on a working day," he said.

Osgood said a meeting is called for next Monday evening at which time the issue will be decided.

The letter to Osgood, which described the date of the parade as "secularizing Sunday," was signed by the following pastors:

Sign Protest Letter The Rev. Hughes B. Morris, Methodist pastor; the Rev. Erle Hobson, Foursquare church; the Rev. Russell E. Smith, Church of the Nazarene; the Rev. Glenn D. Strang, Presbyterian church; the Rev. Charles J. DeHaven, Conservative Baptist church; the Rev. James W. Cooper, Church of God; the Rev. George H. Clingenpeel, First Church of God, all Rochelle; the Rev. Joseph E. Caldwell, Steward Methodist church; Mrs. E. C. Geeding, Washington Grove church.

3-D Movies Give Big New Dimension To Tiny Factory in Blue Ash, Ohio

By JOSEPH DORAN

CINCINNATI—(NEA)—The impact of three-dimensional movies, which has bothered Hollywood and bewildered New York, has positively bewitched Blue Ash.

Blue Ash is a small Cincinnati suburb, the location of a company called Polacoat, Inc. Until Jan. 5, Polacoat went its small way, turning out some odds and ends using polarized glass and plastic — things like variable shades for welding helmets, rear and side-view mirrors for cars and daytime projection screens for rear projection.

Then came 3-D and a phone call from New York. Now Polacoat is turning out polarized glasses by the millions. And they're just one company in the business.

Another is the big Polaroid Corp., in Massachusetts, which turns its specially-treated glasses over to Natural Vision Corp., for manufacture. The latter concern says the present output is about 6,000,000 a week, with 70,000,000 on order and 18,000,000 of the non-re-usable goggles already used up. A spokesman for the Polaroid

GOGGLE-EYED MANUFACTURERS John Dreyer, president of Polacoat, and Al Koett, vice president, peer at the 3-D glasses that overnight turned their tiny factory into a booming concern.

Corp. said that they are "stepping up production rapidly, making substantial enlargements in both raw material supplies and equipment."

All this activity is traceable to the motion picture industry's all-out attempt to create new box office interest. Television has hit movies hard, so the movies are attempting to revive ticket sales with the new gimmick of a third dimension.

There are, basically, two types of third-dimension systems. One is the "big screen" system, exemplified by Cinerama, which uses a tremendous, curved screen to create the illusion of depth. No glasses are needed. The other system uses glasses.

Bob Hall, Polacoat's sales manager, explains how this system works in these words: "They make the right eye see one picture and the left eye another. The 3-D films are made with two pictures so that when each is seen with a separate eye it produces the third dimension."

Theater owners prefer the glass-type of 3-D; there is no expensive conversion of their theater. All they have to do is supply a barrel of the polarized glasses. This is O.K. with Polacoat.

That phone call last January was from Arch Oboler, producer of a pioneer 3-D film, "Bwana Devil," asking Polacoat president John Dreyer to make 50,000,000 pairs of glasses. Since then, the firm's employees have increased more than 900 per cent. And the production is up even more.

Dreyer has acquired two new small factories, now has 52 employees and is looking forward to the day when the country will be using 500,000,000 pairs of polarized glasses a year. The firm already is producing in the millions.

The field looks insatiable as long as three-dimension movies continue to grow.

Dreyer got in on the field back in 1946 when he perfected the process of producing polarized glass by applying a coating to it. The glass or plastic is rubbed in the desired direction with a polishing agent, arranging the molecules in the pattern sought.

GOGGLE-EYED MOVIE FANS watch a three-dimension movie through plastic glasses that started a boom in Blue Ash, Ohio.

A further process sets the pattern. The polarized glasses have to be thrown away each time they are used because the health regulations so theaters cannot reclaim them and pass them out again.

"The heck of it is," says Polacoat's sales manager, "since this 3-D business started orders have been pouring in for all our other products, too."

Red Production

HONG KONG — (U) — When is a production target not a production target?

The Communist organ Peoples Daily in Peking gives an answer in citing the Shichingshan Iron and Steel Works. It announced its 1953 production quota had been set at 11.8 per cent over the 1952 figure.

To reach it, the mill increased its staff 49.8 per cent.

Army Underpaid

PARIS (U)—A bill has been introduced into the French parliament — by the Communists — to raise the pay of French soldiers from 30 to 50 francs per day (8 cents to 14 cents).

"American soldiers are paid 33 times more," said the Communist bill.

British Fear U. S. Scheme To Get Jump in Jet Race

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (U. S. —) The British are all steamed up because they fear the United States is planning a fast one in the race of British and American plane makers to capture the potentially rich American market for jet airliners.

Immediately at stake is 21 million dollars which the British hope to get from Pan American World Airways for 10 jets.

A protest is being aired in the House of Commons over the U. S. Civil Aeronautics Administration's holding up of airworthiness certificates for British-made jet airliners. The British contend that the idea is to let American plane makers catch up in the race, in which the British are now far ahead.

Set Requirements
CAA officials, however, say many problems of safety, noise, and airport construction must yet be solved before jet planes can be certified for civil use.

American plan makers say they'll have jet transports in the air next year and ready for sale by 1956 or 1957.

Pan Am, meantime, has ordered three ocean-crossing Comet III's from the British De Havilland Company for delivery in 1956, with an option to buy seven more. The British fear Pan Am may cancel if certification is held up, but Pan Am officials say they'll be in no hurry to do so.

Boeing's president, William M. Allen, says his firm will have a prototype jet transport flying in 1954. Its three-way design is for use as a military cargo transport, or as a tanker for refueling other jets in the air, or to be fitted out as a commercial airliner.

Going Ahead
Douglas' president, Donald W. Douglas, says, "We are going ahead with production of a jet airliner." Airline sources expect the Douglas jet to be ready about 1957. Lockheed Aircraft also have jet plans well along.

So far Pan Am is the only American air carrier to order jets—getting ready for the competition on the day the British Overseas Airways starts using jets across the Atlantic. Other U. S. air carriers say they are waiting till the jets prove themselves.

Objections to jets center around their cost of operation. They use cheaper fuel but lots more of it. Americans say the cost per mile is 25 per cent higher, that jets need more frequent overhauling, need longer runways than most U. S. airports have, cannot be kept cruising above a port closed by weather, and make so much noise that the public will protest.

Endorses Equal Employment Bill

CHICAGO (U. S. —) A law providing equal employment opportunities in Illinois was advocated in a resolution adopted Wednesday by the Illinois League of Women Voters.

The resolution did not contain the words "fair employment practices act," Mrs. G. E. Seibel of Winnetka, chairman of the civil liberties committee, said the committee felt "the wording is outmoded."

There are about 300,000 accidents to human eyes each year in the United States.

Off-Shore Oil Squabble Seems Headed for Courts

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (U. S. —) In these last few days before Tuesday's Senate vote on giving the states the oil-rich submerged lands off their coasts the changes being suggested by a few senators probably will not get far.

But unless changes are made, the dispute about the undersea land seems headed straight back to the courts to give answers which this measure doesn't supply.

Vaguely Written
Because it is so vaguely written, Atty. Gen. Brownell urged the senate to draw a line, which would show just how much of the submerged lands the states can develop. The Senate measure says the states can have ownership out to a line to which they can make just claim. What is a just claim? It doesn't say.

For most states, those with no offshore oil, the boundary may turn out to be three miles. For Florida, with no offshore oil, it may be 10 1/2 miles. After the Civil War Congress approved a Florida state constitution which claimed 10 1/2 miles.

There is oil off the California shore but most of it is within the three-mile limit. For that state the boundary may be three miles.

Claim Bigger Zone
When Texas was a republic, its constitution claimed control of the waters in the Gulf of Mexico for 10 1/2 miles off its coast. Sen. Daniel, Texas Democrat, says that's a just claim because Congress approved it when Texas was admitted to the union in 1847. But in 1947 the Texas legislature claimed ownership out to the edge of the continental shelf, some 130 miles from Texas' shore.

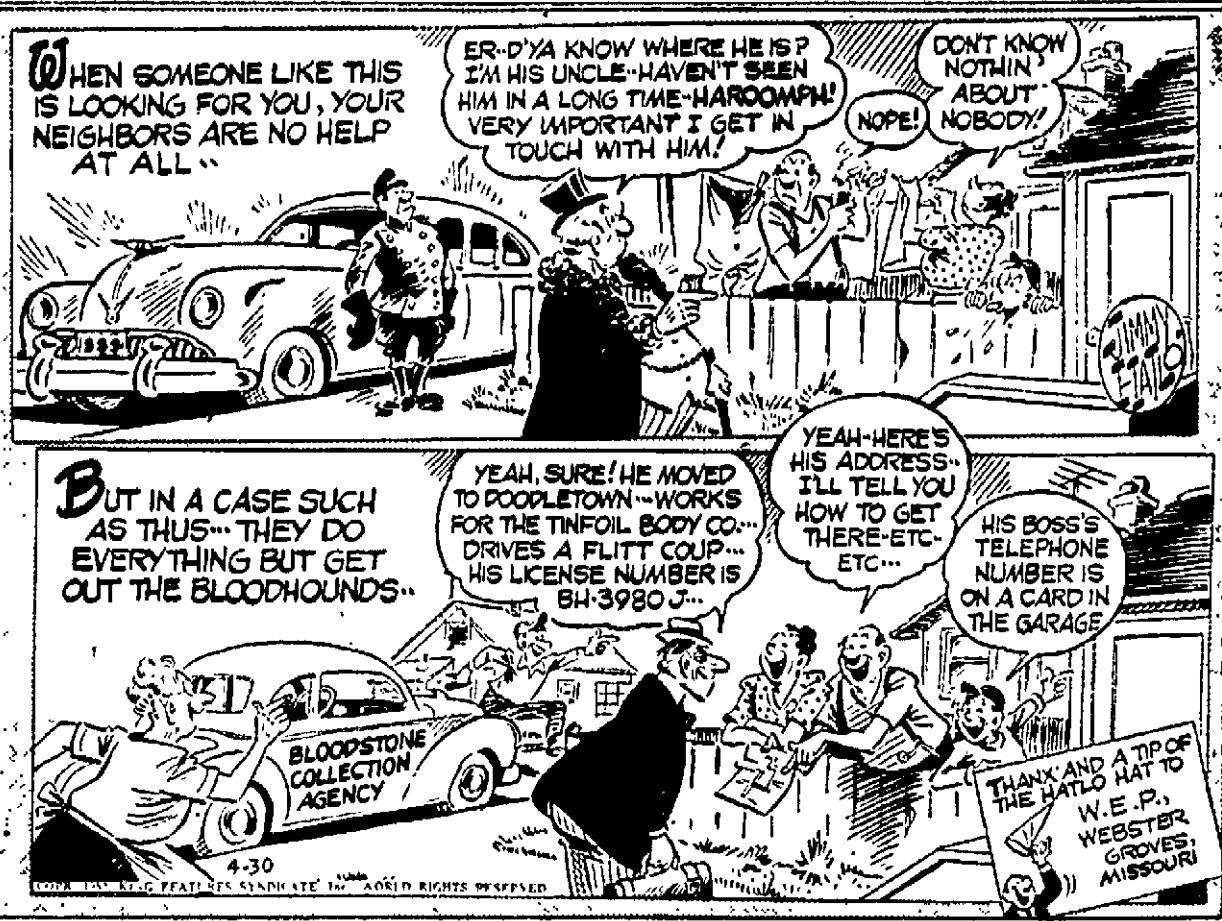

The location of the oil off Texas is significant. The estimated offshore reserve store there is nine billion barrels, with only 400 million within the three-mile limit, 800 from three to 10 1/2 miles, and 7,800,000,000 beyond 10 1/2 miles.

The confusion over Louisiana's boundary is even greater. The furthest island off Louisiana's shore is 10 1/2 miles out in the Gulf. In 1938 the state legislature claimed a boundary of 27 1/2 miles from the coast. But what is the coast? Is it the outermost edge of the outermost island, 10 1/2 miles out? Or is it the outermost edge of the 37 1/2 miles out.

Louisiana's estimated offshore oil reserve is four billion barrels, of which only 250 million are within the three-mile limit and 3 1/2 billion barrels beyond three miles.

Steaks, Beef Roasts Again Top Food Buys

By The Associated Press
Steaks and beef roasts again are the best buys of the week, the nation's food stores report. The same can't be said for pork products.

"Pork prices are booming," commented one chain store sales manager. "They're really up."

Another chain posted hikes on pork chops of 14 cents a pound in Boston and Pittsburgh, 15 cents in Chicago and 21 cents in Los Angeles. The increases were smaller in some other cities—up two cents in Detroit and four cents in Jacksonville.

Behind the rise was a small supply of hogs which sent prices soaring at the livestock markets. Hogs were scarce just when cattle were so plentiful that beef was on the bargain counter.

By and large, beef prices held about the same, although sirloin steak went up four to eight cents a pound in some areas.

Lamb prices edged up again this week, with leg of lamb advancing from two to as much as eight cents a pound.

Frying chickens generally were unchanged or a little lower in price.

Fish mentioned at special prices included halibut steak and smoked cod filets.

Most stores cited the same vegetables as good buys—new and old potatoes, asparagus and tomatoes. Lettuce, onions and cabbage also were mentioned. In the wholesale produce markets, vegetable prices were described as unchanged to slightly higher.

Among fruits going down this week, but only a bit, were navel oranges, lemons, Florida oranges and grapefruit.

Egg prices were much the same. In a few instances, butter slipped a few cents lower.

Coffee prices started coming down this week. During March, roasters of vacuum-packed coffee increased prices by five cents a pound because of the rising cost of green coffee. But since then, green coffee has come down in price. One roaster lowered its price this week to the same level that prevailed at the start of the year.

Auto Deaths May Near '41 All-Time High
CHICAGO (U. S. —) The nation's automobile deaths this year may come close to the record set in 1941 if the present trend continues, the National Safety Council predicted today.

Highway fatalities rose 4 per cent during the first three months of 1953, numbering 8,310 victims of traffic accidents. If the trend continues, the council said, there will be 1,500 more deaths in 1953 than the 38,000 in 1951. In 1941, there were 39,999 fatalities.

Automobile deaths traditionally increase in the summer months, but show the greatest rise in December, the council noted.

Traffic deaths in March, 1953, totaled 2,810, also a 4 per cent rise over March, 1952.

Mundt Says Acheson Team Fired

WASHINGTON (U. S. —) Sen. Mundt (R-SD) disclosed today what he called a "highly accelerated" State department effort to eliminate "members of the old Acheson team" from top policy positions.

His disclosure took at least some of the edge off this aspect of Secretary of State Dulles' questioning at a closed session of a senate appropriations subcommittee today.

Reporting to the nation over radio and television networks last night, Dulles compared U. S. economic aid in Europe to the crutch a sick man uses until he gets well enough to throw it away.

It's Possible
"We believe that this is becoming increasingly possible," he commented in saying America's allies in Europe are getting strong enough to require no more outright grants. Nevertheless, he said, the U. S. will continue to spend "substantial sums" with them.

Dulles said he told this to British, French and other European officials at the meeting in Paris last week of the North Atlantic Treaty council. He said these allies "welcomed a relationship which would be dignified and self-respecting for all concerned."

The secretary declared the council provided for a steady buildup of Western defense, which he described as "no longer a 'push-over,'" and said the Eisenhower administration's plan to substitute trade for aid will "get more security for less money."

Replaces 50
Mundt said the senate subcommittee was informed at a secret meeting this week that Dulles has "replaced over 50 persons in key positions for policy reasons alone."

In addition, Mundt said, the administration has removed or obtained the resignations of 49 others "for reasons of suitability, security or homosexuality" since the GOP took over Jan. 20.

Mundt, an outspoken critic of former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, complained recently of a slow turnover of top State department jobs to men more "in sympathy with the new administration."

But in an interview today, he said:

He's Pleased
"I am very much pleased from the testimony of Under Secretary of State Donald Louie at the highly accelerated rate of turnover now, which I am told will be continued, if not intensified."

The appropriations subcommittee which called Dulles is considering the department's request for 130 million dollars in appropriations for the year starting July 1.

Thousands Pay Honor To Bishop

CHICAGO (U. S. —) A personal honor from Pope Pius XII was among the scores of tributes paid Wednesday to the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil in church services and banquets marking his 25th anniversary as a bishop.

Climaxing the day's celebration was a dinner at the Palmer House Wednesday night attended by some 2,300 persons, including state, county and city officials and church leaders of all faiths.

He was presented with 26 separate awards, including a check for $131,582 from friends and well-wishers for use in his work in the Catholic Youth Organization which he founded.

German Award
Henrich Knapstein, German consul general, presented his country's cross of the Order of Merit to Bishop Sheil as a token of the German people's gratitude for the help he sponsored for German children.

Among those paying the bishop tribute was Rabbi Louis L. Binstock of Chicago's Temple Shalom. He said Bishop Sheil is "a blessed pioneer, a brave prophet, a bold priest, and a beloved servant of the church. The light of his love shines through his life and labor. His deeds match his creed, crossing all lines of color and class."

Those attending the banquet included John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers Union president; Walter Reuther, president of the CIO and Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Rare Honor
Earlier, at a solemn pontifical mass, a letter was read from Pope Pius XII naming the 65-year-old bishop "assistant to the pontifical throne," a high church official said was a rare honor. Twenty-nine bishops from various parts of the country attended the mass.

Cardinal Samuel Stritch, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Chicago, praised the bishop, describing him as "a fighter for social justice, a man who has worked for the entire human race." He said Bishop Sheil could rightly be called "the apostle of youth."

Among the some 2,000 at the mass at Holy Name Cathedral was Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin, formerly of Chicago.

Here Are Hints to Encourage Infants in Self-Feeding Task

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT is a slogan patient mothers keep in mind while their infants test a new (to them) invention—a spoon.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
For real hand-to-mouth living, watch a toddler's first fumbling efforts at self-feeding. He proves that fingers were made before spoons. He wobbles, spills, gives up, wades in again. Neatness takes plenty of practice by baby and lots of patience from mother.

Child experts suggest letting baby play first with an empty cup and spoon to get the hang of the clumsy new tools. Other ways to encourage the young beginner in self-feeding are:

1. Allow plenty of time for meals. Let the toddler set his own eating pace. Stay relaxed. Expect spills.
2. Seat him comfortably at an easy height for hands and feet.
3. Furnish tools that are practical rather than pretty. Give him a straight-handled spoon with a shallow, rounded bowl; an unbreakable, light-weight mug; a broad-based dish; later an adult's salad fork.
4. Be ready to take over when baby gets tired or discouraged.

Good system is to feed him the main dish, let him spoon up dessert.

5. Small portions help, and finger foods cut to size.

First attempts at self-feeding are made easier by convenient foods like banana and orange sections and the hard new teething biscuits that fit small hands. They help hand-to-mouth practice, exercise those first little teeth.

First chewing brings another change—to junior foods. Many mothers mix some of the familiar strained food with the finely chopped junior variety until the young teether gets more accustomed to the different texture.

Quick Creamed Liver
(Makes about 1 cup)
Three-quarters cup water, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 cup nonfat dry milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1 can (3 1/2-ounce) junior liver, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Pour water into top of double milk powder, salt and pepper over surface of water. Beat with rotary beater until blended. Stir in chopped liver and parsley. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve hot over toast or hot boiled rice. For toddlers and grown-ups.

Collecting on Private Insurance VA Headache; Unpaid Bills Costing U. S. Taxpayers Millions

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Fuzzy bookkeeping and legal entanglements in Veterans Administration efforts to collect bills from private insurance companies are costing U.S. taxpayers millions of dollars.

Here's a typical case: Recently a Pennsylvania veteran of World War II was injured in an automobile accident. He was rushed to a VA hospital—because it was close—where doctors discovered that a back injury had completely paralyzed the man.

In making out records VA hospital officials found that the man was fully covered with private surgical and hospitalization insurance.

VA notified the company what had happened to its client. At the end of the first month VA sent the firm a bill itemizing $700 worth of care and requesting some reimbursement.

The insurance company refused to pay a cent for the man's care. And, as in thousands of cases, VA attorneys were finally forced to admit that there was nothing they can do to collect. They say that a health policy is strictly a contract between a man and a firm, with the VA an outside party.

It also happens that the injured vet will be paralyzed for life in a VA hospital.

In this case there wasn't even the so-called "exclusion clause" in the man's contract, which an increasing number of firms are including in policies to make their position against the VA air-tight. The exclusion clause states specifically that no benefits will be paid for treatment in a government hospital.

During the first half of last year, a special study reveals, VA hospitals treated 14,592 veterans for ailments which had nothing to do with their service, who had some form of private health insurance. Bills totaling $1,913,390 were sent to these companies. But only $1,265,564 was collected.

TYPICAL OPERATING ROOM SCENE in VA hospital often includes a patient with non-service connected injuries—but plenty of private health and surgical insurance the VA can't collect.

VA regulations require hospitals to get non-service-connected patients to assign over to VA the right to collection of health insurance. And they call for notifying companies within 24 hours after the admission of insured patients.

However, the general accounting office reports, in addition to the legal barriers, the VA is lax in its efforts to collect.

"Assignments of insurance benefits were not always being obtained at 40 of the 46 hospitals surveyed, from veterans entitled to insurance benefits. Necessary billing control cards were maintained at only 17 of the hospitals," the GAO said.

"Moreover, 43 of the hospitals failed to bill promptly. And no effort was made at 30 of the hospitals to collect charges where the veterans was covered by employees' compensation and only occasional collection was being made in workmen's compensation cases at 16 hospitals."

Efforts are now being made to tighten up lax procedures. But it is becoming more difficult for VA to collect in spite of that.

In a southern state recently a veteran smashed his leg in an accident on the way home from work and was carried to a VA hospital. He was covered by a special group health insurance plan maintained by his employer. But when VA tried to collect, the man's employer refused on the grounds that the firm paid taxes and that VA was a tax-supported government agency.

VA could do nothing about it.

Another case involved a man injured on a job which was covered by workmen's compensation. He was ruptured and the injury didn't become an emergency until several days later, whereupon he was taken to the nearest VA hospital. All VA could collect was $30 on a $100 bill.

VA bills are figured on either standard state hospital charges, or on a charge set by GAO, which is now $14.25 per day for room and board.

The fact that VA can collect on some bills reveals that some insurance firms are willing to pay VA for treatment given their clients. In the recent case of a man who got VA treatment for a serious injury to his back while working in his house, the VA collected $213 on a $211 bill. And in many cases total bills are paid.

VA now tries to bill only for the extent of the man's coverage.

And VA has adopted the policy of not billing on insurance with exclusion clauses and where the company refuses to pay after the first notice. The money they might get in cases of pressing for payment, a VA spokesman says, is less than the cost of trying to collect.

List Some Yanks Still Held by Reds

TOKYO (AP)—A Virginia corporal fresh from a North Korean prison camp today gave the names of 81 Allied troops he said were still in the camp.

Cpl. Everett W. Ritenour, 21, Woodstock, Va., said all of those named were in "pretty good shape" when he left Red Prison Camp No. 5 on the Yalu river.

A check of the official prisoner list turned over to the United Nations Dec. 20, 1951, showed most of them to be on the list.

In Honolulu, a returned American prisoner told the army he memorized the names of 50 U. S. soldiers listed as missing or dead but who actually were held in Red prison camps.

Confirm Report
The army confirmed the report but refused to release the repatriate's name or the names of his 50 fellow prisoners. A spokesman said disclosure of the names "might lead to reprisals against the men still in Communist hands."

The army did not comment on Ritenour's list.

Publication of the list was permitted by the army censor after he checked his headquarters.

Ritenour was among POWs tentatively docketed for return to the U. S. today or Friday.

He said the prisoners on his list had written his name and address in a notebook so that Ritenour could notify relatives they were still alive.

Give List
The list included:
Cpl. Robert H. Ghyers, 1108 Washington av., Catlettsville, Mo., care of J. C. Green, father.

Non-Partisan Plan for Judges Can Work in Illinois, Claim

CHICAGO (AP)—Non-partisan selection of judges "can work in Illinois if given the constant intelligent support" of lawyers, newspapers and the public, a Missouri jurist said Wednesday.

Lyon M. Ewing, president of the Missouri Bar Association reviewed his state's method of selecting judges for the 26th annual convention of the League of Women Voters of Illinois.

He compared the Missouri constitutional amendment, passed by voters in 1940, with a similar judicial amendment now being considered in Illinois.

Best System
The Illinois amendment "is a comprehensive overhauling of your whole judicial system in the interest of improving the administration of justice," Ewing said.

"It includes the best features of the Missouri plan for the selection of judges," he added. "We in Missouri know our system has worked successfully . . . but part time, lackadaisical support will not do."

Before the amendment was adopted in Missouri in 1940, judges were nominated in a political primary election and "were elected on a strictly political party ticket," he said.

Since then "all our Appellate judges and certain of our trial judges have been selected initially on a non-partisan, appointive basis, then passed upon by voters at subsequent elections," he declared.

Missouri Plan
The Missouri plan embraces the Supreme Court's seven judges;

Is Nick Dead or Alive?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Is Nicholas Davis dead or alive? If he's dead, who's impersonating him? If he's alive, who's buried in lot No. 56 at Fernwood Cemetery here?

Feb. 17. About that time, a man, bleeding from a head wound, staggered into a tavern, collapsed and died.

A half dozen persons, including George Kilakis, Davis' friend for six years, identified the body as that of the missing man.

Sunday, another friend of Davis, George Pappas, answered his phone and a voice asked, "Charlie? This is Nick."

Pappas was reasonably certain it was Davis. He said things were mentioned in the ensuing conversation which only Davis knew.

Pappas received a pencilled note from Chicago Wednesday, bearing Davis' name and saying Nick had suffered fainting spells, went to New York to see a doctor and found himself in Chicago, not remembering how he got there.

Pappas said Davis' card did not say whether he would return to Philadelphia immediately nor did it give his address in Chicago.

In Yugoslavia, They Dance for the Groom

A JUG OF WINE AND A VOW: Bachelor friends of Yugoslav (left) bridegroom dance him through streets with jug of wine on way to pick up his bride. But before he says "I do," her background is read out of family Bible (right) as oldest and newest-born kin watch.

By FRED SPARKS
STARA PAZOVA, Yugoslavia—(NEA)—Imagine the bridegroom's best man and his ushers jitterbugging down Main street to the church, inhaling wine en route? Well, that's the way they do it in this spotless Slovak farm town.

I joined 20-year-old Janko Mengan, a nervous bridegroom, as he dressed in his neat farmhouse. Dressing meant putting on a clean white shirt, buttoning the collar (but no tie) and pinning a sprig, like Christmas holly, on his lapel.

Outside, true to ancient tradition, his boyhood chums linked arms and were dancing the local "kolo," which has many jitterbug steps and shakes the body like jello riding a jeep.

As Janko excited, escorted by his uncle, they danced behind him through the streets, serving glasses of new wine to spectators—and themselves.

Bachelors advertised their freedom with gay aprons tucked under their belts and over their trousers.

Joined by the bride's friends, all hands marched and danced into the courtyard of Bride Maria's home. The best man went in looking for her and—tradition again—found her hiding in a closet, properly weeping and blotting her eyes.

Maria was led out, her gold-threaded headdress flicking in the afternoon sun and her embroidered ed wedding gown (200 years old) swaying over 12 petticoats. She clutched one end of a silk scarf—the best man held the other.

While Janko sulked behind a wine laden table, a representative of her family assured his uncle that Maria would be a good wife. Uncle and Janko held a hasty conference and agreed to "accept" Maria.

There was another general splash of new wine, the accordion squeezed faster and faster, and the girls joined the bachelors in the shimmy-dance on the hard dirt of the farmyard.

After a full hour of this gayness the procession reformed.

Off they went to the church as everybody sang in classic chorus: "There is one tree in the field and I have found you beside that tree and now we shall marry."

Welfare Director Blames Society For Sex Crimes

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Otto L. Bettag, director of the Illinois Department of Public Welfare, blames society for permitting sex criminals to go unrecognized.

Bettag was one of three members of a panel Tuesday that discussed "The Sexual Offense Dilemma" at the 22nd annual Governor's Conference on Youth and Community Service. He said:

"When those who commit sex crimes are investigated after the fact, it generally develops that a good many persons in their immediate environment had at least some advance warning or idea of the offender's deviated personality pattern."

Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski of Cook County Family Court said, "It is better to discuss sex in the church and the home than it is in the newspaper."

He said today's children "want to find out the facts for themselves" but warned against supplying too much sex information, particularly in newspapers.

The third panel member, Dr. Lois Higgins, director of the Chicago Crime Prevention Bureau, urged enactment of legislation to protect society from sex crimes.

RADIANT BRIDE MARIA flashes a smile as she comes out of hiding, wearing headdress, pearls and gown that have been in her family 200 years. She also wore 12 petticoats.

Chicagoan Gives Veal Chops Taste Appeal in Sour Cream

In her Chicago kitchen overlooking Lake Michigan, Nebraska-born Marian Looft cooks up some mouth-watering concoctions. Distinguished for her work in home economics, she is equally successful as a hostess. Her are two dishes her friends ask for:

Veal Chops With Sour Cream and Green Pepper
(Yield: 4-6 servings)

Four veal shoulder chops (1 1/2 inch thick), 1/4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons fat, 3/4 cup sliced onion, 1 cup sour cream, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1/2 cup chopped green pepper.

Dip chops in seasoned flour. Brown chops on both sides in hot fat in a heavy skillet. Add onion. Cover and cook over low heat 45 minutes or until meat is tender.

Pork Chops With Rice
(Yield: 6 servings)

Six loin pork chops 3/4-inch thick, 3 tablespoons fat, 1 cup uncooked rice, 1/4 cup soy sauce, 1 teaspoon powdered ginger, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 cups stewed tomatoes, 1 cup water, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 cup chopped green pepper, 1/2 cup chopped onions.

Brown chops on both sides in hot fat in a large skillet. Remove chops from skillet. Brown uncooked rice in same skillet, stirring constantly. Add soy sauce, powdered ginger, salt, tomatoes, water, pepper and onions. Mix thoroughly. Lay chops on top of mixture. Cover. Cook slowly on surface heat or in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes or until chops are tender.

DISCOVERED MAGNETISM
The simple principles of magnetism possessed by magnetic lodestone were discovered by the Chinese in 2400 B. C., some 3500 years before magnetism was known in Europe.

Great Landmarks of Life Sometimes Unannounced

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — The great landmarks of our lives are rarely announced by the blowing of bugles.
We are made aware of change within ourselves by some odd moment of self-discovery, and are surprised to learn that we are not what once we were.
Thus, a woman awakens one fine morning, yawns, and thinks her day will begin as usual. Then she finds that no power on earth is any longer able to pour or pull her into a size dress. Or, perhaps, she is idly plucking her eyebrows and sees shining in the mirror a dangle of silver—her very first gray hair.
Her world has changed in an instant. It will never be the same again.

"We're getting up an office softball team. What position do you want to play?"
"I don't want to play any," I said, without thinking. The copy boy walked away fast, looking relieved. After all, he was trying to put together a winning team.
But I was held by long, long thoughts. In a single spontaneous thoughtless sentence I had terminated my career as an office athlete.
Can Be Costly
Loyalty to the office team can cost a man a lot, as any married man knows. Wives don't care much about having the old man out spraining his knee on Sunday. One softball game years ago cost me considerable peace at home.
My wife arrived in Paris on a Saturday night on her first trip abroad. Our Paris staff had an important softball game scheduled for Sunday, and they were short one player.
Bright and early next morning a voice shouted outside our hotel window:
"Mrs. Boyle, can Boyle come

The Dixon Evening Telegraph

out and play with us?"
Frances turned and looked at me in utter disbelief.
"The team really needs me, dear," I mumbled. I jumped into my clothes and ran out quickly. Well, it was a tough game, but we finally won 6-to-5 in a late rally.
The team, hot and sweaty, all came back to the hotel. When the other players left, I saw the expression in her eyes and said lamely:
"Honey, I knocked in the winning run."
Only Heartless Man
"Do you realize," she answered "that you are probably the only man in history heartless enough to desert his wife on her first morning in Paris just to play an old softball game?"
And I know what she will say when I tell her I have retired from the game:
"Rover, as far as I am concerned you can go right on playing until you break all the bones in your silly head. A girl can only have her first morning in Paris once, and you made me spend it alone."

Channel Tunnel

PARIS (AP) — About once a decade during the last 100 years, someone latches onto a change in world events to revive the idea of digging a tunnel underneath the English channel. Western Europe's defense buildup has again brought the age-old plan to link France and England out of dusty archives.
Ernest Thurtell, a British M. P., and French Architect Andre Bassevant approached top-ranking officers at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe not long ago with a scheme for such a tunnel.
It called for constructing a double-decked, 35-mile-long tunnel connecting Bazinghen near Calais, France, with Folkestone in Kent, England. One deck would be for automotive traffic, the other for a double-track railroad.

Grits With Butter

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo and his wife, both dyed-in-the-wool Southerners, were deeply shocked recently when they went to breakfast with some Northerners and caught them putting cream and sugar on their servings of grits.
A white pile of grits is an invariable accompaniment of breakfast in the south. It's always eaten with melted butter.
Now Mrs. Mayo's special recipe for grits has been printed on pocket sized cards for admirers of her cooking. It's a simple recipe—but it's distinguished by a warning in big letters at the bottom:
"You do not eat grits with cream and sugar."

Goose in Bear Trap

GLENDIVE, Mont. (AP) — Life for a goose who laid vanishing eggs ended in a bear trap.
John Oljar, owner of the goose, thought a skunk was stealing eggs from the bird's nest. He set a huge bear trap for the culprit with a hen's egg as bait.
The "culprit," having hidden her eggs, waddled back to the nest to pick up the bait. She stuck her neck out and that was that.
Owner Oljar found one dead duck — er, goose.

Not So Salty

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Hand thrust in coat pocket, the man ordered George Hughes, bartender, to give him all the money in the till. Hughes refused and he also refused to hand over $10 or $20.
The man then pulled his hand out of his pocket, laid a salt shaker on the bar and fled.

Music Conference

BRUSSELS — (AP) — The part played by music in education will be studied at a conference to be held in Brussels between June 29 and July 9, under the auspices of UNESCO (United Nations' Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization).

This conference, initiated by the International Council of Music, will study the problems relating to non-specialized musical education, i.e., the musical education of the layman. Professional training in music will be discussed at another congress, organized in Salzburg in July, with the collaboration of the Academie of Music of Vienna and Salzburg.

Plates for Hams
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — (AP) — You can tell an amateur radio operator by his automobile license plate in Florida. The state issues special tags to all ham operators who want them. They carry the call letters and numbers of the amateurs' radio stations instead of the usual markings. The hams pay a dollar extra for their made-to-order tags.

Take Only Fair Share of Profit, Businessmen Told
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior McKay Wednesday asked that businessmen help the Eisenhower administration by seeking "only your fair share of the profits of business."

McKay told the United States Chamber of Commerce. "If we do a good job we'll be retained. If we do not we will not be retained."

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, preceding McKay at the Chamber's 41st annual meeting, told the business leaders he had inherited "a terrible situation" in the farm economy because of falling prices, rising farm costs and accumulating surpluses under the price support program.

Controls "Likely"
Wheat and cotton acreage controls "appear likely" next year, Benson said, and by 1954 his department may have used up all its $8,750,000,000 borrowing authority for crop price supports.

"Agriculture exports have dropped off," Benson continued. "We have priced some products out of the foreign market." He said the administration is seeking a farm crop program which will build a self-reliant agricultural industry, with prices and production responding to market demands, instead of government subsidy. He added: "There are some things more important than dollars — especially paternal dollars. We must protect the freedom of our farmers; a subsidized economy destroys the initiative, the freedom and the character of our people."

He's Proud
McKay told the 2,500 businessmen that this administration is "a businessman's administration." Saying he was proud to be a businessman and a member of a business team, he admonished: "We're here in the saddle as an administration representing business and industry."

"You must be very careful that you, as businessmen, ask only your fair share of the profits of business."
